Harvest Select Launches New Division

Tuscaloosa, Alabama (March 10, 2011) – Harvest Select Catfish, a vertically integrated and privately owned Alabama catfish processor, has launched a new division, Harvest Select Seafood.

Harvest Select Seafood originated three years ago when our team met to look for ways to diversify and expand the product offering to our customers. Randy Rhodes, President, commented that “this group was formed from our sales team with years of experience in the seafood industry and a knowledge of product research and development, which made them the perfect choice to lead Harvest Select further into the seafood industry.”

Our first goal is to maintain our high standards while expanding and utilizing new opportunities available with other seafood and aquaculture products. We stand by Harvest Select Seafood products with excellent customer support and a professional network of sales managers and brokers to deliver the seafood you want, when you need it.

Our product line includes farmed raised striped bass, gulf oysters, gulf shrimp, farm raised alligator, whiting, mussels, clams as well as other species both wild caught and farm raised. Our large array of product selection reflects the company’s diverse access to resources and our dedication to being aware of our customer’s needs. Harvest Select Seafood is proud to be an excellent source for seafood products delivered with integrity and care.

For more information, please view our website at harvestselect.com or visit us at booth #816 at the International Boston Seafood Show.
